This resource is invented for software demonstration and retrieval testing. It is not endorsed curriculum guidance, a statement of cultural authority, or a substitute for consultation with relevant communities and official curriculum bodies.

Belonging

Students examine how schools and communities communicate welcome and belonging. They identify formal rules and informal practices that influence who can participate.

Participation audit

In small groups, students audit one school activity for physical, language, sensory and cultural accessibility. They propose an improvement and identify who should be consulted.

Civic action

Students present a practical recommendation to a relevant school decision-maker, explain the evidence supporting it and invite feedback before implementation.

Planning prompts

What should students understand or be able to do after the experience? Which claims require verification? How will students reflect without being asked to represent a culture? What access adjustments should be discussed with the provider?
