Purpose

A practical planning companion for teachers selecting cultural learning experiences. Begin with a clear learning intention, identify what students already know, and select an experience that includes active participation and reflection.

Before the experience

Introduce place, people and cultural context without reducing a culture to food, festivals or costume. Invite students to develop respectful questions. Explain that cultures are living, diverse and continually changing.

After the experience

Use a notice, wonder, connect routine. Students record what they noticed, what they now wonder, and one connection to their classroom learning. Evidence may include annotated sketches, short reflections, group discussion notes or creative responses.

Planning prompts

What should students understand or be able to do after the experience? Which claims require verification? How will students reflect without being asked to represent a culture? What access adjustments should be discussed with the provider?
