Program snapshot

Living Culture is a 75-minute at-school introduction to the world's oldest continuing cultures. The program centres living knowledge, diversity and respectful engagement.

Classroom connections

Teachers may connect the experience to history, geography, arts and intercultural learning. Avoid presenting First Nations peoples only in the past or treating one presenter's account as universal.

Follow-up

Students compare a prior assumption with new evidence, identify a question for further research and acknowledge the source of cultural knowledge used in their response.

Planning prompts

What should students understand or be able to do after the experience? Which claims require verification? How will students reflect without being asked to represent a culture? What access adjustments should be discussed with the provider?
